

The Handy Guide for Foreigners in Taiwan

Research, Development and Evaluation
Commission, Executive Yuan
November 2010

A Note from the Editor

Following centuries of ethnic cultural assimilation and development, today Taiwan has a population of about 23 million and an unique culture that is both rich and diverse. This is the only green island lying on the Tropic of Cancer, with a plethora of natural landscapes that includes mountains, hot springs, lakes, seas, as well as a richness of biological diversity that encompasses 150,000 species of butterflies, birds, and other plant and animal life. A quarter of these are endemic species, such as the Formosan Landlocked Salmon (櫻花鉤吻鮭), Formosan Black Bear (台灣黑熊), Swinhoe's Pheasant (藍腹鷓), and Black-faced Spoonbill (黑面琵鷺), making Taiwan an important base for nature conservation. In addition to its cultural and ecological riches, Taiwan also enjoys comprehensive educational, medical, and transportation systems, along with a complete national infrastructure, advanced information technology and communication networks, and an electronics industry and related subcontracting industries that are among the cutting edge in the world.

Taiwan is in the process of carrying out its first major county and city reorganization since 1949. This process encompasses changes in administrative areas. All of these changes, which will create cities under the direct administration of the central government, will take effect on Dec. 25, 2010. To avoid causing difficulty for its readers, this Handbook contains both the pre- and post-reorganization maps.

City and County Reorganization

| Old Name                         | New Name (from Dec. 25, 2010) |

Immigration & Visas

Visas for visitors entering Taiwan are divided into four categories:

1. Visitor visa, for stays up to 180 days
2. Resident visa, for stays exceeding 180 days
3. Diplomatic visa
4. Courtesy visa

Foreign nationals who meet certain criteria may be visa-exempt, or they may obtain a landing visa.

Information for Foreigners Website

<http://iff.immigration.gov.tw>

This website provides tourists, business travelers, overseas students, long-term residents, and foreign spouses with information they may find useful for living in Taiwan. It contains information on things like visas, taxation, transportation, healthcare, banking, work, public services, etc.

In April 2010, the National Immigration Agency (NIA) began publishing a free Chinese-English bi-weekly newsletter for foreign visitors called “Taiwan What’s Up.” It includes new government measures, special reports, cultural activities and information updates.

Resident Certificate Holder Counter

Special Immigration Counters for ROC Alien Resident Certificate (ARC) holders have been established to speed up immigration procedures for holders of ARCs: two counters each in Terminal 1 and Terminal 2 of Taoyuan International Airport, and one in Kaohsiung International Airport. No vaccination certificate is required for travelers entering Taiwan. Goods worth up to NT$20,000, 200 cigarettes, 25 cigars, or one pound of tobacco; and one liter of alcoholic beverages may be brought into Taiwan duty-free. Underage children, however, are not allowed to bring in tobacco or alcoholic products. Forbidden items include drugs, firearms, ammunition, bladed weapons, live wild animals, protected plants and animals and their products, and other items the import of which is forbidden by law.

Coming to Taiwan for Employment

Employers who wish to hire foreign nationals to work in Taiwan must apply for work permits from the Council of Labor Affairs (CLA). After receiving the work permits, the prospective employers must apply for resident visas for the employees. If the prospective foreign employees have already entered Taiwan on ordinary visitor visas, they can go to the office of the Bureau of Consular Affairs (BOCA) in Taipei, Taichung or Kaohsiung and apply to have their visitor visas changed to resident visas.

If the prospective employees are not in Taiwan, they must go to the nearest overseas ROC mission and apply for resident visas. Foreign nationals who have entered Taiwan visa-exempt or with landing visas must leave Taiwan and apply for resident visas overseas. The CLA has set up a one-stop center for work permit applications for foreign professionals. Companies hiring foreign professionals can handle all procedures for the application of work permits at this center.

A single entry visa of which the duration of stay is no more than 30 days may be granted.  |

►BOCA, MOFA: <http://www.boca.gov.tw/mp.asp?mp=2>

Overstay

Please apply for visa extensions 15~30 days prior to expiration to avoid penalties.

- Foreign nationals who hold ROC visas should keep track of the validity of their visas and ARCs to avoid penalties.
- Travelers who need to stay past the expiration of their visitor visas should apply for extensions 15 days prior to the expiration.
- Foreign nationals who hold ARCs to join their family should apply for extensions 30 days prior to expiration of their ARCs.
- Travelers who hold ARCs for other purposes should apply to the NIA for an extension 15 days before expiration of their ARCs.

Immigration & Visas

Those who overstay for no more than 30 days may, if their original reason for ARC application (such as employment or joining their family) continues to exist, re-apply for an ARC directly with a county/city service center of the NIA, without having to leave the country. Such persons will, however, receive penalties ranging from NT$2,000 to NT$4,000. Those who stay past the expiration date of their visitor or residence visa, or order to exit the country, can be deported and be prohibited from re-entering by the NIA. Please see the Immigration Act for related regulations.

Visa Services

In countries where the ROC maintains a mission, foreign passport holders may apply for a visa at the ROC embassies, consulates or representative offices. It is advised that they apply at the ROC mission in the country where they have a fixed residence.

Applications for visas from within Taiwan must be submitted to the Bureau of Consular Affairs (BOCA) and include:

1. letter of guarantee for visa application to the Republic of China;
2. notification of approval of letter of guarantee for visa application to the Republic of China;
3. visa application form;
4. other relevant documents.

The BOCA and the different regional offices of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MOFA) will provide the forms and information needed for visa application.

Taiwan High Speed Rail

The High Speed Rail (HSR) has become one of the main choice for north-south bound passenger transportation along Taiwan's west coast. It travels from Taipei to Kaohsiung in less than two hours, with stations in Taipei, Banciao (Banciao), Taoyuan, Hsinchu, Taichung, Chiayi, Tainan, and Zuoying in Kaohsiung.

- ▶ For HSR schedules and ticket prices, see <http://www.thsrc.com.tw/en/>
- ▶ HSR Service Telephone: 02-4066-3000
- ▶ HSR Reservation Telephone: 02-4066-0000

Transfer Information

People can transfer between HSR and Taiwan Railway Administration (TRA) trains at the following stations: Taipei, Banqiao (Banciao), Taichung, and Zuoying. All stations have shuttle buses, taxis, reserved pickup, and car rental services for other destinations. All stations have parking facilities nearby.

- ▶ High Speed Rail transfers: http://www.thsrc.com.tw/en/destinations/des\_transfer.asp

Round-the-island Railroad

The railway is one of the best ways to travel around Taiwan. The round-the-island railroad connects all of Taiwan's major cities. There are also local routes, including the Jiji (集集), Pingxi (平溪) and Neiwan (内湾) lines that give access to special scenic areas.

Tickets can be reserved up to 14 days prior to travel via telephone or website, but they must be picked up at the railway station or the post office within two days of making the reservations. For long weekends and holidays, it is advised to make reservations early.

Foreign students who are in Taiwan on short-term study tours can present their foreign passports, international student certification, or a travel pass issued by the National Youth Commission (NYC) (青輔會) and purchase a cheap 5-day, 7-day, or 10-day Taiwan Rail Pass

(TR-PASS). These passes are not available to foreigners with resident certificates. This offer gives young people an ideal opportunity to learn about Taiwan by taking an inexpensive trip around the country.

Metropolitan Rapid Transit Systems

Both Taipei and Kaohsiung have mass rapid transit systems that provide convenient access to tourist spots within the cities and connecting buses are available to surrounding areas. Travelers planning to stay in Taiwan for an extended period can save time by purchasing a Smart Card (or an IC Card), such as the EasyCard in Taipei, or I-Pass and TaiwanMoney Cards in Kaohsiung. Smoking, eating and drinking, and chewing gums are prohibited in MRT stations and on the trains.

Long-distance Bus Service

Many long-distance bus services are available for convenient travel between cities. Some bus routes operate 24 hours a day. Traveling by long-distance buses is cheaper than by train or by plane.

Bus Company Information

| Bus Company             | Telephone                  |
|-------------------------|----------------------------|
| Kuo-Kuang Bus (國光客運)    | 0800-010-138, 02-2331-2950 |

| Free Go Bus (建民客運/飛狗巴士) | 0800-051-519               |

Local Bus Service Transportation

Every city and town in Taiwan has a municipal or highway bus network, providing convenient transportation. In Taipei and Kaohsiung you can use the MRT and connecting shuttle buses to save time. Signs at bus stops show the routes of the buses, so a traveler can check the route before boarding.

The local bus is a great choice for short-distance transportation.

Taxis/Car Rental

Taxis

Taiwan's taxis are easily identifiable by their bright yellow color as well as the "Taxi" light box on their roofs. Taxis in major cities charge by the meter, but tariffs vary from city to city. Some long-distance taxi drivers do not charge by meter, therefore passengers should check with the drivers before using the service. In most cities in Taiwan, you can call for taxi services. Certified taxi drivers who have passed English proficiency tests are available in Taipei and Kaohsiung. To use this service, call the International Community Service Hotline (0800-024-111). A taxi reservation service is available in most convenience stores.

Taxis provide fast and convenient services.

Getting a Motorcycle Driving License

Motorcycles in Taiwan are categorized as light motorcycles, ordinary heavy motorcycles, and large heavy motorcycles. Motorcycles with engines 550cc or larger are now allowed on all expressways (but not highways).

- ▶ Headlights must be turned on at all times when driving.
- ▶ Motorcycle drivers and passengers in Taiwan are required to wear full-face safety helmets at all times.
- ▶ For details on license testing, please check with one of the motor vehicle offices listed below.

Motorcycle Evaporative and Exhaust Emissions Test

Motorcycle should be tested periodically for evaporative and exhaust emissions. Failure to do so will result in penalties. The environmental protection institutions send out notification for tests each year to motorcycle owners as a reminder for this test. Motorcycle owners must carry out this test whether they receive such reminders or not. Tests are available with or without such reminders.

Bicycles

The government has been promoting leisure cycling in recent years. Together with local bicycle-manufacturing industry, great efforts have been made to transform Taiwan into a “Cycling Island.” Many of the island’s main tourist destinations have bicycle rental shops and designated cycling paths, such as the Dongfeng Green Bicycle Corridor (東豐自行車綠廊) and the Shoreline Bikeway at Sun Moon Lake. Taipei City, Taipei County, and Kaohsiung City offer public bike rental with pickups at one location and returns at another. Rental is free of charge for periods varying from the first 30 minutes to 2 hours. For details, check the relevant city or county website.

Tourist Information Services

Tourist Information Website

The Taiwan Tourist Information website contains separate sections on travel, folk festivals, cuisine, shopping, itinerary planning, accommodation, and transport. The website also has recommendations to help you plan your travel itinerary. There is also information on practical topics including entering and exiting Taiwan, exchange rates, postal service, and emergency contacts. All these information are available in Traditional Chinese, Simplified Chinese, English, Japanese, Korean, German, and French.

► Taiwan Tourist Information: <http://eng.taiwan.net.tw>

Tourist Information Hotline: 0800-011-765

Travelers needing information on itinerary planning or emergency assistance can call the Tourism Bureau's Tourist Information Hotline at 0800-011-765 to receive 24-hr assistance in four languages: Chinese, English, Japanese, and Korean. Special operators can provide comprehensive information on topics ranging from transportation and accommodation to itinerary planning and other travel-related matters.

Travel Service Centers

To help travelers, the Tourism Bureau has established Travel Information Service Centers at Taiwan's major airports, railway stations, MRT stations, national scenic areas, and popular tourist sites. Travelers should look for the Center's bright yellow logo “” to find the most practical travel information, provided free of charge. These information centers offer maps and brochures and also allow travelers to go online to look up the information they need. In addition, specialized staff members are available to provide detailed local travel information.

Taiwan Tour Bus

In-depth Travel around Taiwan

The Tourism Bureau has assisted bus operators in planning Taiwan Tour Bus itineraries to cover all major tourist destinations, scenic areas, cultural centers, shops, and festivals. Travelers can be picked up from their hotel, airport, or railway station. These tour buses visit popular tourist sites, providing travelers with transportation, insurance, and comprehensive services. The tour buses also have guides who provide Chinese, English, and Japanese interpretation to help travelers enjoy carefree travel without language barriers. Online reservations and the telephone numbers of major travel agencies can be found on Taiwan Tour Bus' website.

Digital Tour Buddy

An Essential Helpmate for Independent Travel

The Digital Tour Buddy is part of a program sponsored by the National Youth Commission (NYC) (青輔會). It is a mobile phone that you can borrow for 15-30 days, free of charge. It is designed for visitors who are traveling the island on their own. In addition to providing text-messaging and direct-dial services, the Digital Tour Buddy has a built-in English-Chinese dictionary, and it includes numbers for visitor information centers, 24-hr Tourist Information Hotline, Information for Foreigners Hotline, youth hostel reservations, English-language taxis, and other practical functions. The phone's value card can be purchased, and credit can be added at convenience stores and Chunghwa Telecom business offices. Beginning in September 2010, 3G SIM cards are also available for travelers using their own mobile phone for internet connection.

National Parks in Taiwan

Taiwan is surrounded by the sea and has a subtropical climate. It has alpine forests and a diverse topography. The island's warm temperatures and abundant rainfall, nurturing forests with rich plant life as well as a huge variety of animal species. To preserve the island's natural beauty, the government has designated 8 national parks, each with its own characteristics and attractions. Tourists visiting these national parks must obey the regulations protecting the natural environment and respect local cultures and practices.

Leisure Agri-tourism

Taiwan Agri-tourism

Over the years, Taiwan's agriculture has advanced in quantity, variety, and quality. Taiwan's leisure agri-tourism industry has emerged in recent years, combining agricultural experiences with leisure, good food, tradition, and innovation. Homestays (B&B) have become a feature of Taiwan's leisure travel industry in recent years. Many of these facilities have distinctive architectural themes and styles – South Seas, European villas, rural simplicity, traditional villages – and can be found in different settings – mountain streams, coasts, forests, farm fields, and rural villages.

Arts and Culture

Folk Festivals

Taiwan was originally an agricultural country with farmers celebrating a range of religious and folk festivals. The island's history and various cultures have also produced many unique celebrations and activities. The most important traditional festivals, in order of their lunar-calendar dates, are the Lunar New Year, Dragon Boat Festival, Ghost Festival, and Mid-Autumn Moon Festival.

Culture and Arts

Taiwan's traditional operatic arts are represented primarily by Taiwanese opera (Gezaixi) and hand-puppet opera (Budaixi). First developed for the open-air stage, Gezaixi has evolved into a more exquisite form that is now performed in modern theaters. Hand-puppet opera combines folk tales with operatic martial-arts into a kind of theater that has become an important part of Taiwanese popular culture. Beijing opera was later brought from China to Taiwan, where it has been enriched by the addition of modern elements to its highly refined content.

The interweaving of the traditional with the modern has brought Taiwan a booming development of cultural activities and performing groups. From the Ming Hwa Yuan Arts & Cultural Group (明華園) with its melding of traditional and modern elements, and the internationally famous Cloud Gate Dance Theatre (雲門舞集) to the moving U-Theatre drummers (優人神鼓), a large number of outstanding performing groups are working hard to express their cultural beauties not only throughout Taiwan but around the world.

Each town and city has a cultural center, performance hall, and activity center where concerts, dances, dramas, stage plays, and cultural activities are performed. For more information on performing arts activities throughout Taiwan, visit the following websites:

Museums

Taiwan is the home of the world-famous National Palace Museum, which has the largest collection of Chinese art and artifacts from the Song, Yuan, Ming, and Qing dynasties. It is considered one of the premier museums in the world, on par with the New York Metropolitan Museum, British Museum, and the Louvre. Taiwan also boasts museums on a range of subjects such as history, ethnology, natural history, art, industrial arts, image, and industry, including the National Museum of History, National Taiwan Museum of Fine Arts, and National Museum of Natural Science.

Eating & Drinking

The unique characteristics of Taiwanese cuisine are influenced by the island's diverse ethnic groups. Taiwan has everything from exquisite palace dishes and fine foreign foods to innovative local creations.

- ▶ Taiwan's Culinary Culture
- ▶ Night-market Snacks
- ▶ Local Delicacies

Taiwan's Culinary Culture

Rice is Taiwan's staple food for all three meals of the day. In addition to their traditional cooking methods, the island's residents have used local ingredients to develop rice dishes with all kinds of tastes. With a wide variety of fried rice and rice with toppings, rice noodles and vermicelli, people of Taiwan have also taken advantage of the varied characteristics of different rice varieties to produce a wide range of rice-based snacks such as turnip cakes, mochi, leaf-wrapped glutinous rice zongzi dumplings, and the New Year's cake. Restaurants that line the streets and lanes of Taiwan offer all kinds of noodle dishes, of which danzai (peddler) (擔仔麵) noodles and beef noodles have developed their own Taiwanese characteristics.

There are four main types of Taiwanese tea: Dongding Wulong (凍頂烏龍), Wenshan Baozhong (文山包種), Tie Guanyin (鐵觀音), and White-tip Wulong (白毫烏龍), which is also known as Oriental Beauty. Assam black tea is produced as well, but in smaller quantities. Drinking tea is common, yet can also be specialized in Taiwan's daily life. In Taiwan, people drink tea every day. They entertain guests with tea, and an unique “teahouse culture” has developed as a feature of Taiwanese society. Besides brewing tea in the traditional style, Taiwan has also developed its own innovative “pearl milk tea,” which has become popular not only in Taiwan but also in other parts of the world as well. If you want a thorough understanding of the island’s tea culture, you can visit the Pinglin Tea Museum in Taipei County. There you will find exhibits about the history, cultivation, processing, and tea brewing, as well as what tea leaves are made of, the varieties of tea plants, the types of tea leaves, and where tea trees are grown in Taiwan. You can also see displays of tea-processing equipment from the Tang and Song dynasties. There is also a video room, tea house, outdoor tea-drinking area, and tea promotion area.

weekends and holidays, 9:00 a.m. ~ 6:00 p.m.

Diverse Culinary Culture

Taiwan is a great melting pot for Chinese and foreign cuisines, all of which are served in a variety of restaurants around the island. Taiwanese cuisine emphasizes the natural features of the ingredients and adds soy sauce, rice wine, sesame oil, fermented black beans, sweet basil, green onions, coriander, and other spices to produce its own characteristic colors, aromas, and flavors. Seafood is another major feature of the island’s diet. The Hakka people have developed their own cuisine with a strong emphasis on heartiness, flavor, and aroma.

The indigenous peoples cook their dishes using fresh local ingredients, which are accompanied with a sweet wine made of millet. With new cuisines from immigrants from Southeast Asia as well as from other international cuisines and cultures, Taiwan now has a range of foods that can satisfy any palate.

Night-market Snacks

Located around the cities' busiest markets and temples, Taiwan's night markets represent their very own special kind of dining culture. Upon entering a brightly-lit night market, visitors will see clusters of vendors and stalls selling all kinds of delicious snack foods: oyster omelets, milkfish belly stew, fried rice vermicelli, "little cake wrapped in big cake," pork knuckles, oyster noodles, and an endless variety of other snacks. Dining at a night market is convenient, fast, and affordable. Shopping and tasting foods at a night market is definitely an integral part of any Taiwanese experience.

Local Delicacies

Taiwan also has a rich variety of local cultures, including the indigenous people, the Hakka people, and people from all provinces of China. All kinds of tea snacks, cakes and cookies spot are still made in the traditional methods and are perfect for tasting on spot or for taking home as gifts for family and friends.

Protect the World - Bring Your Own Eating Utensils

As Taiwan promotes waste reduction, energy conservation, and carbon reduction, the government encourages its people to bring their own eating utensils when eating out.

Shopping

Taiwan offers a rich and diverse shopping experience, with most shops staying open for more than 12 hours a day. In addition to the department stores and large shopping centers, many unique shopping districts are found island-wide, each with its own character, showing off unique local products. These shopping districts offer all kinds of quality merchandise and a wide range of services. Shopping in Taiwan will be a genuine pleasure.

- ▶ Taiwan's Brand Commercial Districts
- ▶ English Services Emblem
- ▶ Tourist Shopping Assurance System
- ▶ Consumer Protection
- ▶ Information for Consumers

Metropolitan Shopping Districts

Taiwan's three major cities, Taipei, Taichung, and Kaohsiung, are shoppers' paradises offering the latest styles and fashions. The shopping districts in these cities can satisfy everyone's needs. The mass transportation networks make these shops accessible within these cities.

| City/District                                       | District Characteristics   |
|---|--|
| Taipei Ximending Shopping District                  | The name "Ximending" was given to this district during the Japanese Occupation (1895-1945). The Taipei City Government has transformed the area into the city's Times Square. On weekends and holidays Ximending is packed with people who come for cultural and musical performances, shopping, and other activities. Here modern and traditional elements come together to offer a new experience. |
| Taipei Zhongxiao-Dunhua (Eastern) Shopping District | The Eastern District is one of the most popular and convenient business districts in Taipei City. The MRT and bus systems provide connections to the department stores and restaurants that line the streets. Most big-name fashion brands and flagship stores are located in this area.   |
| Taipei Xinyi Shopping District                      | This district is called the "Manhattan of Taipei." During the daytime, it is a business and financial center. At night, it transforms into a fashionable shopping area.  |
| Taichung Jingming 1st Street                        | Cafes, exotic restaurants and art galleries all line this boulevard. There are open-air tables on the sidewalks and outdoor concerts, as well as art exhibits and other community activities. This is a street for shopping, leisure activities and art.   |
| Taichung Tunghai International Art Street           | Close to Tunghai University, the International Art Street is a "Utopian community" that promotes culture, art, and sustainable living. Shops sell many kinds of unique products. The street comes alive in the evenings.   |

Kaohsiung New Juejiang (Horie) Shopping District

Over the past several years the New Juejiang Shopping District has developed into the largest and most well-known place for imported goods in southern Taiwan. It offers a particularly attractive shopping experience for young people.

Kaohsiung Sanduo Shopping District

The Sanduo Shopping District is centered around the Shin Kong Mitsukoshi, Sogo and Mega department stores. In the surrounding area one can find a dazzling display of clothing fashions and other products at inexpensive prices. The area is a favorite among young people, and, as an added attraction, is close to the Linsen Night Market.

Taiwan's Brand Commercial Districts

To meet shopping and travel demands, the Department of Commerce (DOC) of the Ministry of Economic Affairs (MOEA) have revitalized the local commercial environment. Historical villages, natural scenery and LOHAS travel have been combined into tour packages. Good-quality commercial districts that combine cultural activities with shopping are showing a new brand of Taiwan brand specialty goods. Visit <http://gcis.nat.gov.tw/taiwan-go> for more details.

English Services Emblem

The government is promoting an English Services Emblem certification program in order to enhance Taiwan's international service capabilities and to provide foreign visitors with a friendly shopping environment. This program involves guidelines for certification in five areas:

English Services Emblem

shopping, accommodations and dining, tourism and recreation, medical services, and transportation. It encourages businesses to participate in the program and awards them with gold or silver emblems depending on their ability to provide English services.

Tourist Shopping Assurance System

To provide a quality shopping experience for domestic and foreign tourists alike, the Travel Quality Assurance Association set up a Tourist Shopping Assurance System in 2006. It evaluates businesses in regard to environmental safety, post-sales services, product labeling, product shipping, and the quality of services provided by sales personnel. Businesses that pass the evaluation are issued the Tourist Shopping Assurance Emblem. If and when shopping disputes arise in stores with this emblem, shoppers have 30 days to contact the Assurance Association for assistance.

Protecting Consumer Interests

In Taiwan, consumers' interests are protected by the Consumer Protection Act. In general, disputes on returns of merchandise that are purchased by mail order or door-to-door sales are most frequent. Under the regulations, consumers can return merchandise bought via mail-order or door-to-door sales within seven days of receipt.

- ▶ If you have a complaint, contact a local government Consumer Service Center

Information for Consumers

Store Hours

Stores in Taiwan are generally open from 10:00 to 22:00. Stores in most shopping areas lengthen their hours on weekends and holidays - especially during long holidays and the Chinese New Year. Large department stores and shopping centers are open 365 days a year. Some convenience stores, chain pharmacies, fast-food restaurants and bookstores operate 24 hrs a day.

Tax Refund

If you are a visitor with a non-ROC passport (including those who entered with a travel pass, entry/exit permit, or ROC passport without the holder’s ROC ID number stamp) and have purchased goods worth NT$3,000 or more at a store bearing the “Tax Refund” sign, you may request a refund of the business tax paid on those goods at the time of your departure. Make sure that the goods you purchased are: 1. taken out of the country by the traveler and 2. taken out of the country within 30 days of purchase. Show your passport, purchased goods, tax refund form, and Unified Invoice(s) bearing the “Tax Refundable” stamp to Customs at the airport or seaport.

Uniform Invoice

All shops, except those exempted, must provide a Government Uniform Invoice for all business transactions. The Uniform Invoice also serves as a lottery ticket with bi-monthly draws for prizes ranging from NT$200 to NT$2,000,000.

A Shopping Reminder

Please use your own shopping bag

To help conserve the environment, stores do not hand out free plastic bags to shoppers. Shoppers are encouraged to bring their own shopping bags.

Smoking is banned in public places

Taiwan implemented bans on smoking in indoor public-areas in 2009. Smoking is forbidden in indoor spaces with more than three people. Businesses are required to post “No Smoking” signs. Those who smoke where smoking is not allowed are subject to a fine of NT$2,000 to NT$10,000.

Living Tips

Taiwan is a very convenient place to live; daily lives reveal local colors and cultures, providing foreign visitors with interesting diverse experiences.

- ▶ Renting a House
- ▶ Basic Public Services
- ▶ Telecommunications and Internet
- ▶ Postal Services
- ▶ Buying Daily Necessities
- ▶ Keeping a Pet
- ▶ Recycling

Renting a House

The cost of renting an apartment or house varies with location and size, so look around and compare. Before renting a place, look at the place in person, and communicate with the landlord. After you decide, however long you intend to rent, you must sign a lease to protect your interests. In addition to the rent itself, you will most likely be asked for a deposit; if you go through a real estate broker, you will also have to pay brokerage fee. You can check the websites of legal brokers for details of properties for rent. The following website and hotline may also help:

- ▶ Tsuei Ma Ma Foundation for Housing and Community Service:
<http://www.tmm.org.tw/English>
- ▶ International Community Service Hotline: 0800-024-111

Basic Public Services

Tap Water

Taiwan's tap water is safe and convenient, with 99% of tested water meeting quality standards. The Taipei Water Department supplies water in Taipei City; outside Taipei City, the supplier is the Taiwan Water Corp. Information on applications for service, payment of fees, and other water-related matters are available online.

Tap Water Services

| Unit                    | Logo  | Service Hours  | Customer Service Line                  | Website   |
|-------------------------|---|--|--|---|
| Taipei Water Department |   | 8:30~17:30(Except on Saturdays, Sundays and national holidays) | 1910 (24 hours a day, 365 days a year) | http://english.twd.gov.tw     |

Electricity

Taiwan's household electricity is supplied at 110 and 220 volts. Lights, TVs, refrigerators and other small appliances generally use 110 volts, while most air conditioners use 220 volts. If you use electrical products brought from overseas, be sure to check their voltage requirements before plugging them in. When the electrical products neither match the voltage nor fit the sockets, you will have to use an adapter or transformer.

- ▶ Customer Service Hotline: 0800-031-212, 1911 (24 hrs)
- ▶ Customer Right and Request Hotline: 0800-231-213

Gas

Households in Taiwan generally use natural gas delivered via pipelines or pressurized containers. To get a natural gas pipeline into your residence, contact the local gas supplier. You can order a containerful of gas from a local supplier who will deliver it to your home and replace the empty containers. In accordance with government regulations, gas suppliers add a strong odor substance to the natural gas, so that leakage can be detected by smell and action can be taken to avoid accidents.

Cable TV & Radio

In Taiwan viewers have the choice of five terrestrial TV stations, numerous cable stations including CNN, BBC, NHK, HBO, and Discovery, as well as other international channels.

You can receive terrestrial TV programs with an antenna (aerial); for cable TV, however, you need to contact your local cable TV company.

Taiwan's only English-language radio station is ICRT (International Community Radio Taipei), at FM100.7 in northern and southern Taiwan, and FM100.1 in central Taiwan. You can listen to it online at its website (<http://www.icrt.com.tw>). ICRT can be received in most areas of western Taiwan and some parts of the east although reception may not be clear due to signal disruption by the mountains.

113 Personal Safety Hotline

Providing assistance to ensure personal safety of foreign visitors, the 113 protection hotline offers 24-hour service in English, Vietnamese, Thai, Indonesian and Cambodian. Dial 113 to report domestic violence, sexual assaults, and child abuse. Follow the voice instruction in the five languages available, and social work operators will connect you to interpreters for conference calls and provide immediate consultation.

► Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Prevention Committee, MOE: <http://dspc.moi.gov.tw/mp.asp?mp=5>

110 Emergency Helpline (for Police)

The 110 Emergency Helpline provides comprehensive assistance to reports of public disorder, traffic accidents, natural disasters, emergencies, disputes and cases pertinent to the disruption of public interests. Calls to 110 are connected to dedicated operators who will dispatch police officers to the scene quickly to resolve the problems and to protect the safety of people and their property.

119 Helpline (for Fire, Ambulance)

The 119 hotline is a 24-hour service that provides emergency assistance. The fire department will dispatch the nearest team to the scene. Currently all 119 centers have English-speaking operators to assist foreigners. Interpreters are also available via the Foreigner Service Hotline to provide emergency assistance.

Telecommunications and Internet

Local Telephone Service

Foreign residents can apply for a local telephone land line by visiting a telecom business office with their ARCs, passports, and a local citizen guarantor (with his/her ID Card, NHI IC Card). English bills are available upon request.

To call another party in your area, simply dial the local telephone number. To make a domestic long-distance call (to another county or city), first dial the area code and then the local number. For instance, to call a number in Nantou, first dial the area code for Nantou, 049, and then the local number: 239-xxxx.

For international calls, first dial the international access code, the country code, the area code, and finally the number of the party called. To call the number 730-xxxx in New York, for example, first dial the international access code 002 (or 009 or 019), the U.S. country code 1, the New York area code 212, and finally the number, 730-xxxx.

Cell Phone

Taiwan has six cell phone carriers providing 2G, 3G and PHS services. Foreign residents can choose their service provider based on the pricing plans offered. Cell phone pricing plans are categorized into two types: monthly plans and prepaid plans. Foreign residents applying for cell phones need to present their ARCs, passports, and personal ID documents, together with a deposit or a local citizen acting as guarantor. If you have just arrived in Taiwan or are here for only a short stay, we suggest that you apply for a prepaid cell phone plan.

| FarEas Tone      | 0800-058-885         | First International Telecom | 0800-096-866         |

Internet Connection

Taiwan offers a convenient and diversified range of internet services, allowing you to choose from ADSL, optical fiber, TV cable, Wi-Fi, and 3G mobile. To get connected by ADSL or optical fiber, please apply to a fixed network company; to get connected by cable, please apply to the cable TV operator in your area. Many public transport stations, restaurants, coffee shops and other establishments offer WLAN internet connection. For internet connection on your 3G cell phone, please apply with your cell phone operator for a 3G number and a 3G wireless card.

Postal Services

Taiwan's postal services are very convenient. The Chunghwa Post Co. offers domestic and international express delivery, delivery of refrigerated goods, home pickup services, etc. In addition, a number of private parcel services also offer comparable services as well as 24-hour pick up at convenience store chains. The Chunghwa Post also issues exquisite stamps on all kinds of subjects and objects for collections - a passion that is catered to on the Philately section of the company's website.

Buying Daily Necessities

Traditional Market

Buying fresh food and daily necessities is easy. You can buy goods from wholesale stores, supermarkets, and popular traditional markets. Taiwan also has a high density of convenience stores, including 7-Eleven, Family Mart, Hi-Life and OK chains. Many of them are open 24 hrs a day, 365 days a year, and sell packaged foods, drinks and daily necessities. Additionally, they collect various utility bills and other public service fees, accept packages from parcel service companies, provide ATM machines, handle pickups of goods bought online, sell postage stamps and event tickets, and collect taxes and fines.

Traditional Markets

Traditional markets' attractive prices and friendliness make them extremely popular. Traditional markets offer all kinds of fresh produce and local delicacies. The morning traditional markets usually run from 4~5 in the morning until noon; the sunset markets normally run from 3 in the afternoon until 8 in the evening. Prices at the sunset markets are normally lower than those at the morning markets.

Keeping a Pet

If you want to bring a pet into Taiwan, you should first apply to the Bureau of Animal and Plant Health Inspection and Quarantine, Council of Agriculture (COA). You should report to the quarantine counter at the airport or seaport of entry for on-site quarantine inspection and submit an import permit or a certificate of animal health inspection. If the documents are in order, the animal will be cleared immediately; otherwise, it will be kept for the entire quarantine period before release. Pet owners in Taiwan are required to register pets with a county or city animal disease control center or a private organization commissioned by the center within four months of birth. When a pet is deceased, the owner should notify the registration organization within one month of the date of death. Most veterinary clinics provide pet health care, vaccine injections, health examinations and pet registration, among other services.

Recycling

Waste categorization in Taiwan has been practiced for many years. Waste is now separated into three major categories: recyclable garbage, kitchen waste, and ordinary garbage. Recyclable garbage and kitchen waste are both recycled. For more information, go to the Environmental Protection Administration (EPA) website for the links to the local environmental protection agencies and private environmental protection bodies.

- ▶ Recyclable garbage includes paper, metal, glass, plastic, dry batteries, motorized vehicles (automobiles and motor scooters), tires, lead-acid batteries, electrical apparatus, CDs, light sources and cell phones.
- ▶ Kitchen waste includes raw and cooked foods and other organic wastes.
- ▶ Different parts of the island have different regulations regarding waste separation. Before you take out your garbage, separate it and then deliver the designated category of recyclable garbage for that day to the cleaning squad at the assigned time. Failure to separate your garbage according to the regulations can result in a fine from NT$1,200 to NT$6,000. For more information and for garbage collection times and locations, contact your local cleaning squad or environmental protection bureau, or call the special recycling information line.

Healthcare +

Taiwan has a comprehensive healthcare system with hospitals classified as medical centers, regional hospitals, local hospitals and basic-level medical institutes. The medical treatment at various classifications of medical institutions is also divided into Western and Traditional Chinese medicine.

- ▶ National Health Insurance
- ▶ Bilingual Healthcare Service
- ▶ Hospital Classification and Fees
- ▶ Traditional Chinese Medicine
- ▶ Drug Safety
- ▶ Medical Tourism

National Health Insurance

The National Health Insurance (NHI) system is a compulsory social insurance in Taiwan, providing equal medical rights to all residents. Under the provisions of the National Health Insurance Act, permanent residents without full-time employment should take their documentation and participate in the NHI program after they have lived in Taiwan for four months. Foreign nationals with full-time employment should participate in the program on the day of their employment. If they have dependents who are also foreign nationals, those dependents have to obtain Taiwan residency documentation and live on the island for four continuous months before they can take out their insurance. Insured persons living in Taiwan need only to receive their NHI IC Card and pay their premiums regularly. In the cases of injury, illness, or childbirth, the insured person needs to present the insurance card to a contracted medical care institution and only pay the registration fee and partial payment for hospitalization or treatment to receive full medical care. For more information consult with a Bureau of National Health Insurance office.

How Foreign Nationals Can Apply for Insurance

| Insured Person  | Insuring Unit  | Method of Payment  |
|---|--|--|
| Employee  | Employer   | Premium deducted and paid for by employer                        |
| Company owner   | His or her company   | Premium deducted and paid for by employer                        |
| Dependent of foreign nationals                        | Through insurer of spouse or lineal relative                     | Payment made by family member                                    |
| Overseas Chinese or foreign student                   | Through the student's institute                                  | Collected and paid for by the institute                          |
| Those without fixed occupations and family dependents | Through township, city, or district office at place of residence | Monthly notification for payment mailed to insured person by NHI |

© When their ARCs expire, the holders will lose insurance eligibility and should apply for withdrawal.

Bilingual Healthcare Service

Most public hospitals and large medical centers in Taiwan offer Chinese and English healthcare services, and most of their websites, information desks, and signage are in both languages. If you need English medical consultation, you can contact a hospital service representative. Some hospitals also have international healthcare centers that provide convenient healthcare services that include interpreters to help foreign patients at a consultation session. A number of hospitals can work out a plan of treatment and cost estimation before you arrive in Taiwan, provide transportation information upon your arrival, and offer you information on medical tourism services.

Hospital Classification and Fees

Convenient and Efficient Medical Care Services

In line with the National Health Insurance (NHI) referral system, the contracted hospitals are divided into four classifications: medical centers, regional hospitals, local hospitals, and basic-level medical institutes.

You can identify the classification of a medical facility from the NHI logo shown at its entrance. When you seek medical care and present your NHI IC Card, you will be responsible for paying the registration fees which is not part of NHI payment. You are also responsible for partial payment for treatment including a basic charge plus partial payment for medication, rehabilitation, and hospitalization. These payments vary according to the classification of the hospital and are designed primarily to encourage the public to utilize properly medical resources. For the schedule of partial payments, please consult the Bureau of National Health Insurance website.

Hospital Registration Fees (Unit: NT$)

Safeguard of Community Health

Health clinics are Taiwan's most basic medical institutions; one can be found every township, city, and district throughout the island. For remote areas far from large hospitals, health clinics are the first line of defense in public healthcare, providing a full range of timely medical services. They also promote adult health examinations, communicable disease prevention, health education, child health management, health inspection, and domestic care.

Observation, Auscultation, Olfaction, and Palpation

Traditional Chinese medicine represents a healthcare system with a very long history of development. The Department of Health (DOH) set up a Committee on Chinese Medicine and Pharmacy (CCMP) in 1995 to promote the modernization and internationalization of this ancient practice. The people of Taiwan utilize Western and Chinese medicine, and both are encompassed in NHI medical payments. In addition to independent Chinese medicine clinics, many hospitals also have Chinese medicine outpatient departments and some provide English consultation services. Combined Chinese-Western medical treatment is a developing trend, bringing together the features of Western medical therapy with auxiliary Chinese medical treatments to provide a greater diversity of care.

Drug Safety

Getting Prescription Medicine

Taiwan practices a system of separation between medical consultation and pharmacy, so in addition to the pharmacies that operate inside some hospitals, patients can go to independent pharmacies to have their prescriptions filled. Drugs are divided into prescription drugs and non-prescription drugs. The former can be obtained only with a prescription written by a doctor, while the latter can be obtained and used under consultation with a qualified pharmacist.

Prescription Refill

Patients with controlled chronic diseases such as diabetes and high blood pressure can ask their doctors to write a refill prescription for one to three months and have their medication filled at neighborhood drug stores.

Medical Tourism

The quality of Taiwan's healthcare facilities, resources, and services are world class at an affordable cost. Authorities are also promoting the globalization of healthcare industry in combination with medical tourism for elective medical procedures such as physical examinations, and cosmetic surgery. Through assessment systems and international standards such as ISO and Join Commission International (JCI), Taiwan has established a high quality medical environment that meets international standards. JCI accredited hospitals include Wan-Fang Hospital, Taipei Medical University Hospital, Taipei Medical University-Shuang Ho Hospital, and National Taiwan University Hospital. The quality of Taiwan's affordable, world-class healthcare system is world renowned and make Taiwan a major attraction for medical tourism.

Currency

The currency used in Taiwan is the New Taiwan Dollar (NT$), and the basic unit is the Yuan (元). Bank notes come in denominations of NT$2,000, NT$1,000, NT$500, NT$200, and NT$100 (NT$2,000 and NT$200 bills are very rare, however), all having different sizes, colors, and designs. Coins come in denominations of NT$50, NT$20, NT$10, NT$5, and NT$1.

Currency Exchange

Foreign visitors who need foreign exchange services can go to an authorized bank to make exchanges in cash with foreign currencies and travelers checks. Each bank is able to make exchanges in different currencies with various transaction fees and exchange rates. The main branch may offer different foreign exchange services from other branches, therefore it is advised that you check with the banks by phone and on their websites. Foreign visitors should present their passports or ARCs when making a currency exchange. International tourist hotels also provide currency exchange services. Making currency exchange on the black market may lead to frauds.

Locations such as tourist hotels, travel agencies, department stores, along with other authorized institutions may also provide currency exchange services to foreign travelers in Taiwan. Except for tourist hotels, establishments that exchange foreign currencies display a standard “Money Exchanger” sign in Chinese and English outside their doors. For the rate of exchange, please check a bank website.

Travelers Checks

Stores in Taiwan generally do not accept travelers checks. We recommend that you present your passport and other identifications with you when exchanging your travelers checks for the New Taiwan Dollars at a bank or other authorized institutions. Most banks in Taiwan provide travelers check exchange services.

Opening an Account

Opening a New Taiwan Dollar deposit account in Taiwan is simple. Just take your passport bearing a valid entry visa (or stamp) and your

ARC. If you have not received an ARC, please apply for a “Record of ID Number in the ROC” as a substitute at a county/city service center of the NIA. When you open an account you can apply for a bank card at the same time for deposit, withdrawal, or transferring of funds. Different banks use different procedures. For details, check with the individual bank.

Using Bank Cards in Taiwan

|-----------------------------|---|
| Withdrawal Restrictions     | Withdrawals are made in multiples of NT$1000; maximum withdrawal per transaction is NT$30,000 (NT$20,000 for interbank withdrawal), and maximum withdrawal per day is NT$100,000.   |
| Funds Transfer Restrictions | Transfers are limited to NT$30,000 per day (without prior arrangement); transfers of more than NT$30,000 must be prearranged with the bank in which the account resides. The maximum transfer per transaction is NT$2 million. Each bank sets its own daily maximum for transfers. |
| Card Replacement Procedure  | If you lose your bankcard, you can use your bank's 24-hour service line to report your lost card and stop payments. You also need to fill out a lost-card and stop-payment form as soon as possible.  |
| Card Replacement Fees       | Different banks collect different fees for card application, lost card, and card replacement. For details, check with the individual bank.  |

Automatic Teller Machine (ATM)

Outside of banks, you can find ATMs in major railway stations, airports, convenience stores, gas stations, and large shops providing 24-hr service. ATMs are an alternative to bank tellers to provide services such as withdrawals of cash, transfer of funds, payment of taxes, utility bills, telecommunication bills, parking fees or fines, tuitions, credit-card bills and insurance premium. If you make an interbank withdrawal (that is, withdrawal from an ATM that does not belong to your bank) you will be charged a small fee for each transaction. Most ATMs offer interface in both Chinese and English, making them easy to use.

Credit Cards

Applications for international credit cards by foreigners in Taiwan are not affected by the duration of their stay. A copy of your passport and ARC along with a completed application form are required. Each issuing bank has its own rules about guarantors. A card's period of validity and credit limit will be determined by factors such as residence, income, and assessment of debt repayment ability.

Internet Banking

Most of Taiwan's major banks offer internet banking services. Foreign residents who have accounts in local banks can personally activate the internet banking service at the bank where they have an account by presenting valid passports, ARCs (or if they have not yet received their ARC, a "Record of ID Number in the ROC" should be obtained from a local service center of the NIA), along with their signatures or personal seal.

Employment & Investment

The government has adopted a number of preferential measures to attract foreign professionals to work in Taiwan, including the simplification of visa, work permit, and resident permit application procedures. A labor insurance system is being promoted with the aim of creating a safe and convenient working environment for foreign professionals.

Work Permits for Foreign Professionals

Employers of foreign nationals coming to work in Taiwan must submit applications and the required documents for work permits to the appropriate authority. Work permits are valid for a maximum of 3 years. If further employment is needed, the employer may apply for a 4-month extension prior to expiration of the original work permit.

Except for certain occupations (i.e., doctors, lawyers, pilots) that require professional licenses to apply for work permits, a foreign professional should apply directly to the CLA through their employers for work permits. Foreign sailors should apply through their employers to the MOTC; foreign professionals and technical personnel who work in Science Parks and Export Processing Zones should apply through their employers to the Science Park Administration or the Export Processing Zone Administration respectively.

Foreign nationals in the following categories need not apply for work permits:

1. those married to local nationals with established residence in Taiwan;
2. consultants and research workers hired by government agencies and academic research institutions;
3. lecturers and academic researchers who are hired by legally registered public and private universities for Ministry of Education (MOE) approved projects and lectures for duration up to 6 months.

Foreign professionals who have received permission to work in Taiwan prior to their arrival should apply at an overseas consulate or representative office of the Republic of China for resident visas. For those who are already in Taiwan:

Step 1: Apply to the office of the BOCA, for employment visas;

Step 2: Apply to the NIA for Alien Resident Certificates.

A foreign professional whose employer is applying for an extension prior to expiration of the original work permit may continue working without leaving the country.

Preferential Measures for Foreign Professionals in Taiwan

Employment Pass Card

The Employment Pass Card is issued by the NIA to foreign workers of professional or technical nature. It combines the functions of work permit, ARC, and re-entry permit. For professionals who are outside of Taiwan, applications must be submitted with required documentation and fees to an ROC consulate or representative office overseas. For professionals who are already in Taiwan, applications with required documentation and fees should be submitted by their employers or agents to the NIA.

Qualifications for the Employment Pass Card

1. Professional or technical workers
2. Executives of enterprises in Taiwan invested in or established by overseas Chinese or foreign nationals with government approval
3. Teachers in the following schools:
  - public or legally registered private schools at the college level or above and schools for foreign residents
  - qualified foreign-language courses of public or legally registered private schools at the senior high level or below
  - bilingual departments of public or legally registered private experimental senior high schools, or in bilingual schools
4. Full-time foreign-language teachers in legally registered short-term supplementary schools
5. Athletic coaches and athletes
6. Religious and art workers, and performing artists
7. Consultants or research workers hired by government agencies or government academic research institutions

Academic and Business Travel Card

International experts who qualify under the “Operation Directions for Issuance of the Academic and Business Travel Card and the Implementation of Expedited Immigration Clearance” and whose primary purpose of entry into Taiwan is not employment may apply to the NIA for the Academic and Business Travel Card. The Card is valid for 3 years and may not be extended. However, those who wish to stay in Taiwan for more than 3 years may apply for a new card. The Card allows unlimited entry into Taiwan for durations up to 30 days, and cardholders also enjoy expedited immigration clearance. During a cardholder’s stay in Taiwan the Card may also be used as work permit that allow the cardholder to engage in business and academic activities such as performances, lectures, and business or technical consultations.

Alien Permanent Residential Card (APRC)

APRCs are available for foreign professionals and investment immigration. Professionals who have outstanding talents in advanced technologies, scientific research and business management, and foreign scholars and persons who have been awarded for international academic achievements, and honors in culture, arts, technologies, and sports are eligible to apply for APRCs.

Foreign nationals who invest over 15 million NTD and create more than 5 jobs for over three years; or who invest over 30 million NTD in designated ventures for over five years are also eligible to apply for the APRC. Please see “Application for the APRC - Submission Directions for Senior Professionals and Investment Immigrants” for detailed requirements.

Working in Taiwan: Rights and Obligations

Regular Medical Examination

Foreign nationals applying to teaching positions in supplementary schools in Taiwan must submit a certificate of medical examination performed within the past 3 months for approval by the Department of Health (DOH); if the medical examination is performed overseas, it must be validated by an overseas ROC representative office. For foreign persons already in Taiwan, their employers must arrange for them to take medical examinations at a hospital designated by the DOH within 3 working days after entry into Taiwan and within 30 days before or after the date on which they have resided in Taiwan for 6 months, 18 months, and 30 months.

Visa

Foreign nationals who have obtained work permits from the CLA should apply for visas at ROC overseas missions, prior to their travel to Taiwan. If they have already entered Taiwan, they should consult with a nearby office of the BOCA.

► BOCA, MOFA: <http://www.boca.gov.tw/>

Alien Resident Certificate (ARC)

Foreign nationals with the intention to reside in Taiwan should submit an application for an ARC, together with required documentation, to a local service center of the NIA within 15 days after entering Taiwan.

Salary Income and Tax Payment

1. All taxpayers must file their tax returns by May 31. Legal foreign workers for less than 183 days within a taxable year (Jan. 1~Dec. 31) are treated as non-residents. Non-residents who earn no more than 1.5 times the minimum wage (no more than NT$25,920 per month) are taxed at 6% on salary income; those who earn more than that are taxed at 18%.
2. Legal foreign workers who work and live in Taiwan for 183 days or more within a taxable year (Jan. 1~Dec. 31) are deemed as tax residents. Withholding tax on their salary is assessed at rates stipulated by relevant regulations or 6%. These tax residents should file their tax returns before May 31 of the following year.

Personal Tax Preferences

To attract foreign professionals to live and work in Taiwan, the Ministry of Finance (MOF) implemented the “Scope of application for tax preferences provided to foreign professionals” on January 1, 2008. Eligible foreign professionals are allowed to list the following as deductibles from taxable income: round-trip travel costs paid by the company for themselves and for their dependents, home-leave travel costs, relocation costs, utility fees, cleaning fees, telephone fees, rental costs, the cost of renovating rented premises, and children’s educational costs.

Foreign Resident Tax Return Filed via the Internet

Since May 2010, foreign residents without ID cards can use approved electronic certificates to file tax return via the internet; or use their ARC to obtain annual income tax information from local tax offices and file for income tax via the Internet.

Labor Protection

Labor Insurance

All foreign residents who hold ARCs and work permits must participate in the National Health Insurance (NHI, for details please see the Healthcare chapter). To further protect the interests of employees, participation in labor insurance is required.

Labor insurance in Taiwan is divided into two major categories: full-time employees who are insured through their companies, and part-time employees who must join a union and be insured through the union.

A fraction of the labor insurance premiums are paid with the worker's monthly salaries where the employers pay 70%, the government subsidizes 10%, and the workers pay 20% of the premium. Coverage includes injuries and illnesses, loss of daily function abilities, childbirth, death, senior citizen pension, and medical costs resulted from occupational hazards.

Investing in Taiwan

Taiwan is positioned to be the hub connecting Europe, America, Japan, and the emerging markets of the Asia-Pacific region. It is a center of high-tech OEM/ODM manufacturing and an R&D and testing center for global businesses aiming to explore the Chinese markets.

The MOEA has set up the “Invest in Taiwan” portal website to provide investors with the information they need in the different stages of investment evaluation. This is the gateway where investors from all over the world can learn about Taiwan's investment environment. The "Investment Climate" and "Investment Guide" sections of the website provide the following comprehensive information about Taiwan:

- Human resources
- Tax laws and regulations
- Investment incentives
- Operation Locations

Studying

Universities in Taiwan have adopted policies to raise the quality of their curricula to promote globalization. Centers of Chinese language and culture studies and scholarships for foreign students have been established to encourage foreign students to pursue academic as well as cultural exchanges. With numerous foreign schools found in Taiwan, foreign residents will feel at ease when it comes to making arrangements for their children's education.

Taiwan Education Centers

For the purpose of expanding the enrollment of foreign students in Taiwan and promoting the study of Chinese, the Ministry of Education (MOE) encourages Taiwanese universities to set up overseas Taiwan education centers to provide information on higher education in Taiwan and to offer Chinese-language courses and proficiency tests.

Studying in Taiwan

Students without ROC nationality or without Overseas Chinese ID are referred to as foreign students. According to the Regulations Regarding International Students Undertaking Studies in Taiwan, foreign students should apply directly to their schools of choice and duly submit all necessary documentation. Admitted applicants will be issued letters of admission. Foreign students who already have legal resident status in Taiwan and seek admission to elementary or high school can go to a school near their residence. With the exception of those who are applying to graduate programs, foreign students, upon completion of prerequisite courses in Taiwan, who wish to continue studying certain courses should use the same admission process as local students.

The Amendment to the Act Governing International Students' Study in Taiwan

In order to encourage international students to study in Taiwan, the Ministry of Education amended the Act Governing International Students' Study in Taiwan to clarify ambiguities within the Act and to remove difficulties foreign students have faced. The new regulations are effective as of February 1, 2011.

Foreign students are now allowed to apply for professional programs at the master's degree level. Taiwanese universities are allowed to accept foreign and overseas Chinese students if the universities have additional capacity after admission of all qualified local students. While applicants are required to present proof of their financial status, they are no longer required to have the documents verified by a ROC consulate or representative offices.

The amendments also state that schools shall expel foreign students who apply for household registration, naturalization or restoration of their Republic of China (Taiwan) nationality during their study in Taiwan.

Scholarships Opportunities in Taiwan

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MOFA), National Science Council (NSC), and Ministry of Education (MOE) have jointly established scholarships to attract outstanding foreign students (not including those from Mainland China, Hong Kong and Macau) to pursue degree programs in Taiwan.

The MOFA offers scholarships to students from friendly countries with or without formal diplomatic ties with Taiwan. The MOE and NSC scholarships are offered to students from other countries not covered by the MOFA scholarship.

For details on scholarships, application procedures and other information, please consult an ROC overseas consulate or representative office.

The Centennial of the Republic of China

The year 2011 is the Grand Centennial of the Republic of China. Numerous government and private activities to celebrate the Centennial kicked off in 2010 with the aim of showing the world the rich and multi-faceted achievements that Taiwan has accomplished over the past century.

The Centennial logo is a golden “100.” It is a number that represents success and symbolizes a century of proud achievements.

The Republic of China had undergone an arduous century, overcoming countless setbacks and challenges before it finally achieved prosperity in Taiwan and opened the way to new hope. It is a century worthy of celebration, which witnessed the foundation being laid for the present success and a brighter future for the people of Taiwan.
